SYRACUSE UNIVERSITY HAVEN RESIDENCE HALL Dining Hall Conversion To Residences

Bell & Spina, P.C. was asked by Syracuse University to design the conversion of the circular Haven Dining Hall into residence rooms arranged in private and semi-private suites. The task was to configure as many bedrooms into the circular shape as the space and building code would allow.

The final scheme allowed for 27 new bedrooms arranged primarily in 4-person suites with one 2-person suite and a Resident Advisor suite. Each suite type included a common area, a kitchenette, private bedrooms and a private bathroom.

In order to “connect” the student residents in new suites in the circular structure to the students residing in an adjacent Tower that is part of the overall complex, a connector bridge was proposed that linked the two components. A new energy efficient curtain wall was also part of the project.
